

RAKSHABANDHAN

On the eve of Rakshabandhan 50 girls and 50 boys will tie rakhis in the midst of spiritual environment with glittering diyas and fragrance of incense. They are all kids from various Mumbai-based orphanage brought together by NGO Jagrut Bharat Sevabhai Sanstha, who will be celebrating Rakshabandhan at a function organised by KORUM Mall on the day. The Rakhis have been made by kids of Ehsaas, an NGO of street kids, along with their mothers. Customers buying Rakhi from kids at Ehsaas will be offered a free courier service to send Rakhi to their brothers across India. The offer ends today.
