

A quiz on biodiversity was conducted on the first day for the students of Nalanda Public School

Korum mall joins hands with kids to mark National Science Day

Ankita G Menon @ankitagmenon

Thane: Students from schools across Thane joined hands with Korum mall to commemorate National Science Day. On February 26 and 27, the mall chose the theme of biodiversity and spread awareness among the students to save nature.

"In our school, we have week-long activities to celebrate National Science Day. All the research for these competitions are undertaken by the students, which gives them a chance to learn more. Every year, we conduct street plays that focus on various topics; children themselves find out about the character they have to play and the teachers mould their roles and dialogues as per their re-

Considering others

The students performed a skit on conserving nature, for which they enacted various extinct and endangered creatures. They also highlighted how it is essential to protect nature and not harm the habitats of the animals and birds

On the second day, a painting competition was held, in which students from 30 schools participated. They were judged by some well-known professors from JJ School of Arts search. But, this year, Korum mall gave us a chance to perform the street play inside the mall," said Nandita Khanna, principal of Nalanda Public School.

Students performed a skit on conserving nature for which they enacted various extinct and endangered creatures. They highlighted how it is essential to protect nature and not harm the habitats of animals and birds. A quiz on biodiversity was also conducted on the first day for the students of Nalanda Public School.

On the second day, a painting competition was held, in which students from 30 schools participated. They were judged by some well-known professors from JJ School of Arts.

"We need to conserve nature for the future generation. They will understand the importance of conserving nature and educate their families about it," said Deva Jyotula, general manager, Korum mall.